

Update on the Suspension of JPMF - Emerging Europe Equity Fund and JPMF - Russia Fund

Dear Shareholder,

On the 28 February 2022 the Management Company communicated that we had taken the decision to temporarily suspend the calculation of the Net Asset Value ("NAV") of JPMorgan Funds – Russia Fund and JPMorgan Funds – Emerging Europe Equity Fund ("the Funds"). This decision was taken in order to protect the best interests of shareholders in the Funds. As a result, the last official Net Asset Value (NAV) per share published was on the 25 February 2022.

Unfortunately this suspension remains in force as normal market trading conditions continue to be significantly impaired due to the conflict between Russia and Ukraine. We understand that being unable to deal in the Funds is frustrating and we will take the decision to lift this suspension, or propose alternative solutions, as soon as we consider it is in the best interests of existing shareholders to do so. We are however unable to say how long the Funds will be suspended for, but the decision will be reviewed on an ongoing basis.

We however recognise that you might need some information about the potential value of your holdings in the Funds. The below table shows a calculated non-tradable indicative NAV of each share class as of 29 April 2022. An indicative NAV is an internal estimate of the value of the fund's assets taking into account the investment manager's inability to trade Russian assets both onshore and offshore, lack of relevant price discovery and market uncertainty. Please note this is not an official (NAV), the official NAV calculation is still suspended and you cannot subscribe into nor redeem from the Funds. We will post regular updates, including a monthly update of the below indicative NAV's on the Funds News and Announcements page on our website – www.jpmorganassetmanagement.lu.
